

The best-loved parks become the heart of their community and a reflection of its values. Chroma Design recognizes that every park possesses this potential. We also understand that each park must serve a range of activities as well as utilitarian functions. The goal of our park design process is to fit each park's program to its physical and cultural context in a sustainable way. We strive to create parks that stimulate the senses while expanding each visitor's experience and broadening their appreciation of their surroundings.
